Resident Profile...Don Wetmore

A child of the Depression (born in 1920), Don still recalls happy family years in Melrose Highlands, Mass. On his Harvard application he asked for roommates from the South or West. They were "Great guys"! Don has treasured memories of playing in the student orchestra, serving on a student council committee, getting to know the whole class of 1942. Then he won the biggest lottery—his draft number was the first one drawn from a goldfish bowl by Navy Secretary Knox. After choosing the Navy, Don became an assault boat officer, landing the first waves of infantry on invasion beaches at Sicily, Salerno, Anzio, Elba and Southern France, where he was awarded the purple heart and bronze star for valor.

He married a Coast Guard Communication officer who earned a M.A. from Radcliffe while he went to Harvard Business School (MBA '47). For 30 years, he served as Human Resource Director or Labor Relations Director with companies in motion pictures, aircraft engines, and steel rolling mills industries. He was named to the National Labor panel of the American Arbitration Association. From 1970 to retirement Don had a second career as a professor at the University of the West Indies, then at UMass Dartmouth, where he was elected president of the faculty senate.

With his wife and three children (two born next door at Mt. Auburn Hospital) Don has not only lived in Cambridge (Whittier and Linnaean Streets) but also Lexington (Five Fields), Greenwich, Conn., Nonquitt and Salter's Point in Dartmouth, Mass. Having five grandchildren, he does not want to bore friends talking about how wonderful those grandchildren are. Don still plays the cello (no audiences please) and is a perennial member of his HBS reunion committee (20th Reunion Chairman) and Harvard Fund Telephoners. He enjoys and heartily recommends life at The Cambridge Homes. Don is a dedicated bridge player and runs a "Bridge Club" at TCH and he enjoys play reading directed by our phenomenal Friends of The Cambridge Homes.

Celebrating Veteran's Day....

Classical Music Throughout the Ages... Starting January, 2012 at TCH

In this interactive course, participants will learn how to listen to classical music from the five most prominent musical genres, exploring the unique colors, textures and moods captured by prolific composers including Palestrina, Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Wagner, Stravinsky and beyond. Whether you are an avid music listener or simply yearning to hear great music and engage in musical conversation, this class will be providing an excellent overview and will enhance your listening experience. The discussions are lead by Chris Schroeder, an accomplished trumpet player, vocalist and music educator with experience performing in a variety of settings from musical theater, opera, a cappella bands, orchestras and chamber groups. He holds a M.M. from the Boston Conservatory and a B.M. from Stetson University.
