RESIDENT PROFILE

Joseph Saia and his lovely wife Carmella have been married for 67 years and have lived in South Boston equally as long! The two met at Joseph's mother's apartment because Carmella's sister lived upstairs in the building. When they were courting, they would go on picnics together with their families. The place where they picnicked had an old car that Joe used to teach Carmella how to drive. Both Carmella and Joe were born and raised in the North End of Boston. When they settled down in South Boston, Joe got a job at the post office and Carmella stayed home to raise the kids. They have three children, ten grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren. The Saias are very active in the South Boston community. They were on the advisory board at city hall for seniors, and they also belong to the Senior Center, where they started bingo afternoons. Joe also started a once-a-month Italian night on 2nd street where one time he received an award presented by Ray Flynn (it happened on his and Carmella's 50th anniversary!). Joe also broke ground for construction on the Senior Center with Ray Flynn. Both Joe and Carmella continue to be active at Compass on the Bay, as they love the variety of programs we offer. In particular they enjoyed the Reconnections program entitled "Southie's My Hometown!" as they had lots of stories and information to add to the discussion. We are lucky to have the Saias here with us and we look forward to many more stories about their lives.
