RESIDENT PROFILE

Susanna Robbins was born in the small town of Randolph, Vermont. She has one sister, Marcia, who lives in Seattle, Washington, and two half brothers and a half sister.

Susanna’s father was a mathematician who taught at Columbia University and later founded the Institute of Biostatistics at Rutgers University. Susanna attended The Brearley School in New York City, and later attended The Putney School in Vermont. After high school graduation, Susanna attended Radcliffe and graduated cum laude with a degree in English Literature. She later received a Ph.D in English Literature.

Susanna taught at Vassar in the English Department, and after several years relocated to Cambridge to start an editorial business. Susanna has published many books, including a peace-themed book, several memoirs of the 60’s and some poetry books.

In her free time, Susanna enjoys painting and writing. She has works in the Fogg Museum and Smith College Museum of Art and is a Loeb Arts Center Ambassador. She has studied printmaking at the Cambridge Center for Adult Education. Susanna says she likes the peace and quiet at Neville Place and loves living on a nature preserve. She takes walks on nice days, and can enjoy the view of Fresh Pond from the window of her apartment here.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON HAPPY HOUR!

Friday afternoon at Neville Place is frequently spent at a “Happy Hour” in our Country Kitchen! This particular Friday we served a choice of white sangria or a refreshing glass of raspberry ginger ale, along with some salty snacks. We often have a hot appetizer accompanied by music and lots of very funny conversation.

*Enjoying the camaraderie and refreshments are (clockwise from top left): Jessie Babajtis, Al Case, and Mary Gineitis; Dorothy Crusco and Kate Reist; and Erna Benjamin and Elaine Harrington

November is National Alzheimer's Awareness Month!

for “brain healthy” nutrition TIPS & recipes.

Scientists now believe diet can delay the onset or progression of Alzheimer's!

A LIFE OF MY OWN

Actress Linda Kenyon brought Eleanor Roosevelt to life at Neville Place with her performance entitled, “A Life of My Own: Meeting Eleanor Roosevelt.” Several residents (including Silvia Bilander, above) talked with Linda after the performance about their experiences meeting the iconic Eleanor Roosevelt while she was the First Lady.

BALLOON HATS

CONCERT-GOERS

Dawna Dourian, Vera Metastasio, and Kate Reist enjoy a performance by pianist Russ Carlton
